

How we transform lives, together

Supported by over 500 specially trained volunteers, the accredited coaches at our 14 centres across WA tailor a range of therapeutic, educational and recreational activities to help participants fulfil their goals and live healthier, happier lives.

Lives defined not by their disabilities, but by new skills, abilities and opportunities.

Nurturing confidence, friendships and independence

Research shows that the three-dimensional movement of horse-riding provides significant therapeutic benefits, improving strength, mobility, coordination, balance and posture.

But just as importantly, our programs boost emotional wellbeing and build social skills, confidence and decision-making abilities.

At HorsePower, we harness the therapeutic power of horses to transform physical health and emotional wellbeing for children, young people and adults living with disabilities or mental health issues. People with diversabilities.

Our purpose

To empower people living with diversabilities to develop new skills, discover new abilities and define the life they want to live.

And we do it because nothing beats seeing someone with a disability surprise themselves and achieve a milestone they never thought possible.

Or seeing someone struggling with a mental health issue turn a corner and take control of their life.

And as a partner, it's an infectious feel-good factor that will enrich your workforce, your culture and your profile in the community.
